WITH THE FINNISH ELECTRICAL WORKERS' UNION

YOU'RE NEVER ALONE

In the constantly evolving electrical industry, people work in technically diverse and demanding jobs. The Finnish Electrical Workers' Union is familiar with the complexities and details of the demands, challenges, pay and terms of employment. We have been advocating for electricity workers since 1955.

If you work in the electrical industry, your trade union is the Finnish Electrical Workers' Union!

The Finnish Electrical Workers' Union has around 34,000 members who work with electricity, for example, on construction sites, in power generation, factories and data connection companies, are studying or have retired from the electrical industry.

THE FINNISH ELECTRICAL WORKERS' UNION

NEGOTIATES

The Finnish Electrical Workers' Union represents professionals in the industry and negotiates terms of employment and wages.

We have national and company-specific collective agreements. These cover issues such as minimum terms, minimum wages and the basis for setting them, holiday pay, working hours and holidays. The more of us there are, the better we can make our voices heard. It is almost impossible to negotiate on, for example, paid leave or overtime work compensation by yourself. As a member of the union, you not only influence your own terms of employment, but you also help to improve the terms of employment in the electrical industry as a whole.

THE MEMBERSHIP FEE FOR FINNISH ELECTRICAL WORKERS' UNION IS 1% OF THE MEMBER'S INCOME SUBJECT TO WITHHOLDING TAX.

MEMBERS OF THE FINNISH ELECTRICAL WORKERS' UNION ARE ALSO MEMBERS OF THE UNEMPLOYMENT FUND AARIA.

BENEFITS OF

MEMBERSHIP

The 1% membership fee of the Finnish Electrical Workers' Union includes a significant number of benefits with monetary value.

Help with the challenges of working life

Competent and active shop stewards of the Finnish Electrical Workers' Union advocate for the interests of members at the workplace. Thanks to our shop steward network, you can also get help at the workplace level.

You can quickly get help and advice from the union officials on employment issues and on various problems and disputes. If disputes escalate, we also offer our members free legal aid for court proceedings if the conditions are met.

Unemployment security

The membership fee of the Finnish Electrical Workers' Union includes the membership fee of the Unemployment Fund Aaria. If you become unemployed or are laid off, you are entitled to a daily allowance linked to your earnings, provided you meet the conditions for membership and employment.

Courses and training

We organise a diverse range of courses, which are free of charge for members. The union offers a wide range of courses, from TES courses to card courses for unemployed members. Courses are offered both online and live, which also provides networking opportunities.

THE FINNISH ELECTRICAL WORKERS' UNION MOBILE APP INCLUDES MEMBERSHIP BENEFITS, NEWS, INSURANCE INFORMATION, IMPORTANT CONTACT DETAILS AND THE FINNISH ELECTRICAL WORKERS' UNION MOBILE MEMBERSHIP CARD.
